A. 6th Proletarian Brigade at Doboj

50X1-HUM

1. In autumn 1963 the construction of the Doboj-Miljkovac caserne was completed. There are four two-story buildings, occupied by the 6th Proletarian Brigade under Col. Vukasin Karanovic. The caserne is completely modern. In adjacent buildings there are clubrooms, mess halls, and modern sports facilities.

2. The 6th Proletarian Brigade is supplied with TAM and FAP trucks. The TAM 4500 have total traction.
3. A large reserve supply depot belonging to the brigade is located in a valley near Sevarlije.

B. Ljubljana Military District Maneuvers

50X1-HUM

1. During the second ten-day-period of October 1963 large-scale maneuvers took place in the region south of Ljubljana, near Postojna, Rakek and Senozece, in the direction of the Italian border. The commanding officer was Major General Aleksandar Vojinovic. The First Proletarian Division of Postojna, commanded by Colonel Djuro Kotaras, was arranged to defend an attack by troops coming from Italy.

2. The following units participated: ground troops of the Ljubljana Military District; parachutists from Novo Mesto (Izvidjaci); armored battalions of the First Proletarian Division under Major Milan Ivkovic; aircraft and helicopters from Cerklje and Lucko, and tanks from Vrhnika.

3. Observations:

The defense forces were very successful through their complete concealment and camouflaging of trenches and positions.

Generals Jovic and Korac, who came from Zagreb, observed the exercises. General Korac expressed satisfaction at the maneuvers and indicated that they had added another dimension to future training.

General Pehacek from Ljubljana praised the infantry in particular.

General Vojinovic was not satisfied with the sanitation and food services because the TAM trucks proved to be unsuited to mountainous terrain.

The defense of fortified positions was notable for its rapid fire on the attackers.
